NRCS East Region Grazing Specialist Report (Kevin Ogles):
• Some state GLCs have been getting grants in the last few months either from CIG through NGLC or some other groups.
• 2 state GLCs have renewed their groups in the past year or so finding new purpose and are doing exciting things. These are New Hampshire and South Carolina GLCs. They both were able to meet with the NGLC Chair and or other NGLC members in getting information to find new purposes.
• Unfortunately, two states have also ceased having a state GLC and an AFGC state affiliation in the past year. These are Alabama and Georgia. Lack of support and purpose were two of the factors that lead to those decisions, according to former members of both organizations. Lack of support was not necessarily limited to just financial support or just recognition or support of their cause by government partners like NRCS they stated.
• The need for livestock producers to network and share pursuing common goals has never been greater during my career. Consumer demand for pasture raised livestock is ever increasing.
